VOL. II. RALEIGH, N. C., THURSDAY EVENING, MARCH 7, 1867. NO. 178.

THE SENTINEL.

WM. E. PELL, PROPRIETOR.

Thursday Evening, March 7, 1867.

The Great Johnston Will Case.

This great case, as heretofore stated, was decided in favor of the will, at Edenton, a few days since.

The Rev. Henry E. Skinner, of Newbern, one of the witnesses for the will, furnishes the Newbern Journal of Commerce the following interesting description of men and things connected with the trial:

"At my departure on Friday evening, the 22d inst., the trial had extended through sixteen days, of which the first two were occupied in the Judge's charge, the empannelling of the jury, the opening of the case for the propounders of the will, by Patrick Winston, Esq., of Bertie, and other preliminaries necessary to the conduct of the suit. Two weeks were consumed in hearing the evidence, which was to have been closed on Saturday morning, the 23d ult., and then the discussion was to begin immediately, and to continue, as the Judge declared, day and night, allowing only the necessary intervals for rest and refreshment.

His Honor, Mr. Merrimon, is allowed by all to be an admirable Judge. Clear-headed, cool and perfectly courteous, but alert and firm, it seemed impossible to disturb his equanimity or to confuse him, amidst the incessant wranglings of the lawyers, and the frequent entanglement of knotty questions. He announced from the first his intention to hold the scales of justice evenly, and to urge on the long delayed suit to a conclusion. Every one present at the trial can bear witness to his success, so far, in carrying out this determination.

All preliminaries settled and the case duly opened for the propounders, the examination of the six subscribing witnesses to the Will began on Friday, the third day of the trial. The public interest, already profoundly excited, now deepened; and the attendance at Court increased. The quiet town of Edenton was strangely moved by the unwonted sensation, and by the presence of so many men of distinction—some of whom have already become historical. Here were three Ex Governors of the State, and among them he who is facile princeps in the popular mind, Vance himself;—here, too, were Mr. Bartholomew Moore, esteemed the shrewdest and most learned lawyer in North Carolina; and Mr. Heath, who still ought to be Judge Heath, one of the lights of the law; and Mr. Smith, the distinguished ex-Congressman of the United and of the Confederate States—not to speak of the other counsel on each side; all of whom, including the juniors, are men of tried ability in their profession.

In addition to the curiosity felt to see and hear these men of talent and distinction, there was strong local interest felt in the trial. Mr. Johnston had lived and died in that community, many of his relatives are there, and from the previously known character of much of the evidence to be heard in the Court, public expectation mingled, perhaps, with a good deal of idle curiosity, was on tip toe to hear strange revelations about a man who for many years had enveloped himself in a sort of aristocratic-mystery and lived in a rather stately seclusion.—It was no wonder, then, that wrinkled men and careless youths, men of business and men of pleasure, physicians, newly fledged lawyers, school teachers and ministers, attended the trial. All classes seemed interested, and even the ladies of the community manifested a strong desire to be present, though the Court did not see fit to admit during the evidence. The negroes felt the prevailing insterest, and the more intelligent among them would leave their shops or their trades and spend hours in the Court.

The examination of the subscribing witnesses was conducted by Mr. Bat. Moore, the cross-examination by ex-Gov. Graham. To one accustomed to the witness stand it was a severe ordeal, to be sifted by such men in the presence of such associates as and of so impartial a Judge. To one unused to such a position, as was your correspondent, it was, as you may suppose, exceedingly trying.

Mr. Moore has a mind naturally adapted for taking in the principles of the law, and, at the same time, trained by practice and study to a high perfection. He is, decidedly, a first rate lawyer, and possessed of the utmost coolness, pertinacity and acuteness.

In fine contrast stands Mr. Graham, a great lawyer, but a greater man; the homo factus ad unguem. It was a partial relief from this when the great lawyer had ended his artful attempts to badger and browbeat and trip you, and turned you over to that courteous and elegant, but dignified man, who knew how to extract from a witness all that could be got, but with delicate consideration for person and office.

That gentleman, indeed, shed a peculiar lustre upon the scene. Whenever he spoke from his seat, he commanded general attention; and when he rose up, even to speak on some dry or abstruse point of law, his fine person, his admirable self-command, his dignified tones, his courteous language, with the accuracy and force of his diction, drew all eyes towards him, and fixed the attention of the entire audience until he had finished speaking.

The examination of the six subscribers occupied through three days, and as has already been observed, their testimony seemed to put beyond dispute, the identity of the testament, and the sanity of the testator at the time of its execution.

On the sixth day of the trial, the case was opened for the caveators by W. A. Moore, Esq., of Edenton—son of the late Judge Moore, in a speech marked by much force and clearness of argument. But the position with which he started out was remarkable. He asserted that the caveators were not only responsible for the property of their relative, but to defend his character from the stigma of insanity, which must be [illegible] the establishment of [illegible] Will; and then he declared that they would bring indisputable evidence to prove that he was not of a sound mind at the time of the execution of the will, [illegible] years previous! From this, it would appear as if none but Mr. [illegible] have a right to pronounce [illegible]

The testimony against the will occupied more than a week, and the examinations were conducted in the most thorough and searching manner. Ex Govs. Bragg, Vance and Graham participated by turns, and Mr. Moore principally conducted the cross examinations. The evidence seemed to [illegible] the insanity of Mr. Johnston for a number of years, with occasional outbreaks, in which he several times attempted to take his own life, and once or twice threatened the lives of others. But it failed to prove satisfactorily that he was legally incompetent at the time he made his will.

The rebutting testimony occupied about three days, and was to have been closed on the morning after my departure, Friday night the 22d of February.

In the examinations of witnesses, Mr. Bragg proved himself a match for Mr. Moore, and sometimes an overmatch. Gov. Vance conducted the highly interesting examination of a lady witness of great importance, with the most admirable precision and coolness, and at the same time with perfect courtesy. He seems equal to any occasion, and unless I am greatly mistaken, has swayed the minds of the jury more than any of the counsel employed; to judge from the effect he produced upon the court and spectators whenever he spoke. Up to the time of my departure, he had not spoken often, but, whenever he stood up, every body seemed to prepare for something good, or, at any rate, something amusing. He was evidently the popular idol; and his reputation is not merely founded upon his power of ridicule or sarcasm, his wit or humor; but he rises, upon occasions, to lofty flights of eloquence, and has power,—a perogative of pure genius—to govern the passions as well as the minds of men.

A great number of witnesses were examined, and a still greater number summoned, it is said about sixty; and there were besides many depositions of absent persons, among them one from B'p. Green, of Mississippi, giving his opinion decidedly in favor of Mr. Johnson's insanity at their last meeting in 1858. The conduct of many of the witnesses was marked by all as unusually cool and dispassionate. The lady, alluded to above, appeared in a striking light, both as to her person and manner, and her evidence. Mr. Moore declined to cross-examine her, which was taken as the highest compliment to the consistency and accuracy of her statements.

The question of Moral Insanity was introduced by the caveators, and Dr. Hammond, late Surgeon General of the United States, was present and examined as an expert—having written a treatise on the subject. His opinion, after hearing the evidence, was, that Mr. Johnson was a monomaniac in regard to his relatives, at the time he executed his will. But in the course of the cross examination, Mr. Moore drew from him the admission that he was summoned upon the promise of a liberal contingent fee; which was considered to have vitiated his testimony, although he declared that he had waived it upon his arrival at Edenton.

The trial was conducted with great strictness, and according to the most minute formalities of the law. It was a close struggle and every inch of ground was strongly contested on both sides. A more interesting and instructive suit probably never occurred in the State, and very rarely outside of it.—The decision of the jury will not end the suit, as the losing parties, it was understood, will certainly appeal to the Supreme Court, and there the verdict of the jury may not have much weight. In mental calibre and intelligence they are much below the usual standard—every intelligent man in the community having "formed and expressed" a decided conviction one way or the other. But if this will is upset it will, in the opinion of many, yield a strong precedent for an alteration."

Reconstruction.

A very hasty examination of the Reconstruction act of Congress, some days ago, led us to suppose that the Congress would require, of the Legislatures of the ten disfranchised States, the initiatory steps necessary to the call of the Conventions of the Southern States, demanded as essential to reconstruction. For whatever of illegality attached to their acts, heretofore, in the estimation of Congress, the act itself seems to validate them as Provisional Governments, so far as the Congress could make them so. Hence, we unwittingly remarked, that if we were to have a State Convention at all, (holding to our strong regard for law and order,) we favored one called by the constituted authorities of the State. A more careful examination of the law in question leads us to an entirely different conclusion. If the Congress intended or expected the Legislatures to move in the matter, we judge it would have said so and more particularly defined the plan. Perhaps, however, further information will alter this opinion.

Equally without foundation, it strikes us, is the scheme of the Holdenites to call a Convention, as recently inaugurated in this city. The Congress certainly did not look to the irregular and hazardous reliance upon caucuses and irresponsible bodies for the calling of so important a body as a State Convention to form a Constitution.—Especially could not the Congress have meant to countenance the calling of such a body, composed in a great measure of persons who are disqualified by the act itself, from holding office in or voting for the Convention.

A moment's reflection upon the Act, and the powers therein conferred upon the military Commander of the District, will convince all, we think, that the whole apparatus of reconstruction, under the Act, is placed in the hands of the Commander, and no one else, as to when, how, and by whom the whole machinery is to be managed. The Congress assumes, incorrectly we think, that the States are in a state of disorder and war, and places them under Military Commanders, who are to determine when they are fit for reconstruction. We are therefore persuaded, until further developments are made, that all movements in that direction are premature, and that the schemes and plans of those in hot haste to reconstruct, are liable to be nullified by the will of the District Commander.

Entertaining these views, our object, in our article on yesterday, was to encourage among our people sobriety of thought, speech and action, and a thorough pondering of their duty to the State, the Union and to posterity, as to the part they should take in the question of Congressional reconstruction. If any portion of our enfranchised white people feel they cannot take part in the matter,—if they think that the interests of the State, and of posterity, do not compel them to exercise their franchise,—our object was to impress upon them the importance of such a course of action, as would not be construed into a purpose on their part, to defeat the object of the ruling power in the work of reconstruction. If we cannot help, we are in no condition to oppose, the march of the revolution. The sirocco will pass over us, in spite of us; let us so act as to be harmed as little by it as possible. Yet we believe, as a matter of policy, that every enfranchised white man in the State, who can in conscience do so, should exercise his right of suffrage and all his franchises, towards giving the Congressional plan of reconstruction a fair trial, and seeing to it, that the deadly blast of the storm shall go no further than the Congress requires.

Tax Decisions.

The Supreme Court of this State has decided the following points, in cases submitted to them at its late term:

1st. The Revenue ordinances of the Convention, taxing merchants and others in Beaufort, Newbern, &c., for their purchases during the year 1865, is valid. The fact that the merchants paid tax to the United States for license to carry on business makes no difference.

Appeal has been taken from this decision to the Supreme Court of the United States.

2nd. The provision of the Revenue laws of the State, taxing purchasers of liquors made out of the State higher than purchasers of liquors made in the State, is constitutional.

3rd. Persons desiring to contest the validity of taxes on subjects mentioned in schedule A. of the Revenue act, i. e. those subjects given in to the list-takers, must apply to the County Courts for relief. It is not legal to pay to the Sheriff under protest and then sue the Sheriff.

A Word to Debtors.

We feel impelled, by the interest we feel in the debtor class of the people of North Carolina, to suggest to all who have been sued under the Convention Stay law, returnable at the Spring term of the Courts, if possible to make arrangements to meet the tenth of the claims against them, in order to avail themselves of the further benefits of the Convention Stay Law. We have no doubt Judge Barnes' decision will be sustained by the Supreme Court, whenever the question is brought before it.

REVENUE BILL.—Our space will not allow us to insert the Revenue Bill entire. We, [illegible] instead, an abstract, which [illegible] the general reader as good an [illegible] of what tax payers are expected to do, [illegible] the whole bill itself. The bill was drawn up by the Public Treasurer, K. P. Battle, Esq.

State Treasury Notes.

Our readers will remember that a scheme for issuing State Treasury notes, in payment of interest on the public debt, was defeated in the Senate of the late General Assembly. Diverse statements were made in regard to the fate of similar notes issued by South Carolina in 1865-6. A friend exhibits to us a letter from the Public Treasurer of that State, dated March 4th., 1867, which sets the matter at rest.

The Treasurer states that the whole amount of notes issued by South Carolina up to March 1st., 1867, were $330,000, of which $175,000 only are now outstanding. They are by law redeemable in U. S. currency at the Treasury, but at present the supply of greenbacks is exhausted. These notes were kept generally at par in 1866, except in Charleston. Yet at present they are at 10 to 20 per cent. discount in all parts of the State.

We learn from Governor Orr's message to the General Assembly of South Carolina, that the tax levied by that State was calculated to bring in $419,668, which is much more than the entire amount of "bills receivable" issued. Governor Orr and Treasurer Hood both intimate the opinion that the notes can be kept at par only by providing national currency sufficient to redeem them whenever presented.

It is also stated in the report of the Public Treasurer of Louisiana for 1867, that Louisiana issued two millions of dollars of Treasury notes, to rebuild her levees, said notes receivable for taxes. The Treasurer says the people refused to receive them as a currency, and the only circulation they had was from the Treasury to the broker's office and back, and he calls on the Legislature to authorize the sale of State bonds for what they will bring in market, for national currency, in order to supply the Treasury.

These facts formed the chief difficulty in the way of the patriotic efforts of Mr. Berry, of Orange, to sustain the credit of the State. We saw those impediments and hence preferred Col. Cowan's proposition, as the only one that could meet the case, if our people could possibly bear it. The failure of the Legislature to provide for the appreciation of our State bonds, has rendered most of its legislation the past session entirely nugatory, especially that relating to Railroads and relief for the people.

The Movement.

We observe that a secret caucus of the so-called Unionists, composed of members of the Legislature and citizens, has been held in this city, but no time is given, and no names are mentioned, except those of the Chairman and Secretary. Mr. C. L. Harris, Senator from Rutherford, &c., was the Chairman, and Mr. W. R. Richardson, of this city, was Secretary. We are under the impression that the caucus was held about last Thursday night. It was resolved that the Chairman designate at least one hundred citizens of the State, who should be invited to a conference to be held in this city on the 27th. inst., to mature a plan to call a Convention of the people of the State, to frame a Constitution, &c. One hundred and forty have been designated and published, including, of course, the members of the caucus. The chairman was also instructed to confer with the colored people of the State to ascertain their views and wishes. We learn that the Chairman has removed from Rutherford to this city, where, at the centre, he will be able the better to manipulate the business.

We design no offensive allusions to this meeting. Until the Military Commander of the District assumes his command, and issues his orders, all citizens, white and colored, will have liberty to meet in secret conclave, to devise any scheme, good or bad, they desire. We conceive, however, that the meeting, in question, has made three blunders. First, it is, we think, premature in its movement, as the conference will be on the 27th. We submit that it assumes what belongs to the Military Commandant. Secondly, among those summoned to take part in these proceedings, one-half, if no more, of the invited actors are disqualified by the express terms of the Reconstruction Act, itself, from voting or holding a seat in the Convention to be called. Congress certainly did not intend that the managers and movers in the Convention should be disqualified by the Act. Thirdly, the colored population of the State, i. e., the males 21 years of age, and residents for a year, are made by the act qualified citizens, to participate in any measure relating to the Convention, and yet we find that among the many intelligent and respectable colored men in the State, Mr. Harris has not invited one of them to participate in this Conference. Why have James H. Harris, Handy Lockett, Dr. Brown, Mr. Schenck, Mr. Good, Mr. Hood, and many others, been left out of this invitation? Will the colored population feel that it is treating them properly, simply to depute Mr. Harris, the Chairman, to meet them at the African Church, or at other places of the meetings of the colored population, to confer with them? This looks very much as if the so-called "loyal Union men" are still in the condition of Mr. Blythe, who considered the Union men persecuted because they were charged with favoring negro suffrage. Mr. Scoggin and others showed in the Legislature, that they were not yet ready for reconstruction. We advise our colored friends in the State to keep their eyes well skinned.—"White folks are mighty unsartin."

President Johnson's late Provisional Governor of North Carolina says, of his recent veto message:

"It is a violent, inflammatory, revolutionary document. Instead of yielding gracefully to the will of the nation, the President defies that will, and lends the influence of his great office to the encouragement of rebels and traitors."

Yet the President holds in that message, the identical doctrines, held by the Ex. P. G. and the members of the 39th Congress, the best portion of their lives.

FAILURES.—Since our enlargement, we deeply regret we have failed twice to get out our Western mail in time. We shall use every effort to prevent a recurrence of it.

Another Feminine Phenomenon.

There is a Miss Windsor in Providnece, R. I., whose case is similar, in many respects, to the curious one in Brooklyn, lately made public, and the following statement is well authenticated:

"Miss Windsor has been confined to her bed for several months, and has not partaken of sufficient nourishment to keep her alive if she had been in a normal condition. Yet her faculties have become strangely acute, and she seems to be endowed with a species of second sight. When the physician, Dr. Ira Barrow, calls on her, she can tell the number of visits he has made, the numbers of the houses of his patients, and describe accurately their complaints.—The clock having been removed from her chamber, she was enabled to determine at any hour the exact time of day or night, and she would describe the color, size, and mark of the doctor's horse, and the hue and texture of the linings of his carriage. She composed a poem which she called "The Sea Serpent," one-half of each line in Latin, and the rest in English, which was pronounced by the Professors of Brown's University pure Latin, although she had never the least instruction in the language. She also draws finely, without having taken lessons, and does other extraordinary things not to be accounted for by any of the known laws of temperament, medicine, or science. While asleep her right arm is constantly in motion, though it is perfectly powerless when she is awake. A number of the physicians and savans of Providence are deeply interested in the case of Miss Windsor and are endeavoring to solve the mystery of her seemingly supernatural powers."

THE SUPREME COURT AND THE MILITARY BILL.—The first paragraph of the President's veto message on the military reconstruction bill closes with the intimation that it will be tested before the Supreme Court. The President hopes that his reasons "may have some influence on the minds of the patriotic and enlightened men with whom the decision must ultimately rest." He forgets that the nation has determined the question already, and that no enactment or decree can avail anything against an enlightened public opinion. Men make laws for their security and the protection of society.—When laws cease to accomplish these purposes men overthrow them by reformation or revolution. Legal decisions in such cases have no more force than statutes, and a decision of the Suprem Court cannot and will not prevent the American nation from achieving its great work. The President's threat, therefore, fell without weight amongst the representatives of the people.—Washington Chronicle.

S. C. STATE MONEY.—A friend, writing us a private letter from Columbia, S. C., says in reference to the currency in that city:

"We get nothing but State money, and you cannot spend it, or exchange it for greenbacks one half of the time. My board money was handed back to me to-night, because they could not pass it. I do not see what the people will do. I would advise —— not to come this way."

If such a fate awaited the proposed issue of N. C. treasury notes, we heartily rejoice at the defeat of that measure by the Legislature. A depreciated currency always drives out of circulation a better one. Bank notes supplanted specie previous to the war, and Confederate currency drove out all other issue during the war. We prefer greenbacks for the present, to any circulating medium by a State.—Char. Guardian.

FERTILIZERS
FOR SPRING CROPS.

WE beg to inform the trade and planters of North Carolina and Virginia, that we are prepared to furnish them with the most approved FERTILIZERS, on the most accommodating terms. We will have a stock of genuine PERUVIAN GUANO, purchased direct from the Agent of the Peruvian Government.

We have now in store, for immediate delivery, 325 tons BRADLEY'S SUPER PHOSPHATE OF LIME, which won for itself such an enviable reputation in the Cotton and Tobacco counties of North Carolina and Virginia, last season, proving itself equal, and in many important respects, superior to the Peruvian Guano. We give an analysis of it as acertained by Dr. Hayes, one of the most eminent Chemists in the country:

Results of Analyses Made of Bradley's Patent Super-Phosphate of Lime, as now sold by Wm. L. Bradley.

100 PARTS CONSIST OF
Moisture - - - - - 5.30
Prepared animal matter, salts of Ammonia, fatty substances and Humus 28.50
Bone Phosphates of Lime, Magnesia and Iron - - - -
(Soluble Phosphates of do. 16 6-10.) 36.80
Sulphate of Lime - - - 16.50
Salts - - - - - 20
Insoluble - - - - - 2.40
99.90

The animal matter afforded 4 2-10 parts of Ammonia when it was decomposed, and, as will be seen, nearly one-half of the Bone Phosphate is soluble.

After many analyses of your Super-Phosphate of Lime, made during the last few months, I have found your standard of quality full equal to that of any you have ever sold in former years; and I am satisfied that you include the correct principles in the manufacture. Respectfully,

A. A. HAYES, M. D., State Assayer.

We refer to the following gentlemen who tested its merits last season:

LOCAL DEPARTMENT.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.—See notice of the Clerk of the County Court in Hood, Admr., vs. Whitley, et als.

Superior Irish Potatoes and prime Brown Sugar: James M. Towles, agent.

Particular attention is directed to the advertisment of R. W. York, Trustee.

Mitchell, Allen & Co., Newbern, make an important announcement to coach-makers, saddlers, and others. They have everything that is wanting in those trades, of the best kind.

REMARKABLE PRESERVATION.—We learn that but few of the bodies of our noble dead, that have been exhumed for the purpose of removal to the Confederate Cemetery, near this city, are in any state of preservation.—One remarkable exception, however, has been observed. The body of a young Mississippi lieutenant, who has been buried for more than three years, was found to be admirably preserved,—so much so that his friends and acquaintances, had there been any such present, might easily have identified him.—Even his uniform was in perfect condition.

NATIONAL AND METEOR BASE BALL CLUBS.—We learn that, some weeks ago, the National Base Ball Club, composed of the young men connected with the military department in this city, challenged the Meteor Club of Newbern for a game, which was to have come off, in this city, on Monday last. The Meteors were up to time and on the spot, but the continuance of the bad weather has blocked the game up to this time.—We learn that the game is progressing this evening, however.

CRESCENT BASE BALL CLUB.—This is a new Club, recently formed of the best players among the young men lately connected with the Pioneer and Tar Heel Clubs.—From what we learn, either this step or the bad season has had a bad effect upon the old Pioneer and Tar Heel Clubs. The Pioneer, we learn, is about to expire, and the Tar Heels are becoming indifferent; or both are beginning to find out that it don't pay.

MERCHANTS and others in established business will notice the following change in the manner of their listing:

Hereafter they must list their purchase from April 1st. to April 1st., to the list-takers, instead of as heretofore to the Sheriff from July to July. For the present year they will list their purchases from July 1st. 1866, to April 1st. 1867.

PROTECTION AGAINST FIRE.—We have been informed that Charlotte has numerous public wells kept in good order, a tank of immense capacity always kept filled with water, on every square, two steam fire-engines and an efficient Hook and Ladder Company. We presume that neither our citizens or authorities are willing to admit that Raleigh is not quite as well able to make similar provision for the security of property.

The Commissioners, as we stated on yesterday, have taken one step in the right direction. But they have not gone half far enough. Their ordinances only look to the improvement of the apparatus we have on hand, at present; which, were it all in first-rate order, is miserably inadequate.

Unless greater facilities are speedily afforded, we apprehend that the Insurance Companies may be compelled to cancel many of the policies which they have issued.

CAUTION.—It would be well for those who have smoke-houses, with anything in them, (!) to observe unusual vigilance during the prevailing dark and inclement nights.—There have been several robberies in the city with the past week.

As negro suffarge is now established in Tennessee and Brownlow renominated for Governor, it is proposed to run a negro candidate to test the sincerity of the Radicals, and see if they meant business when they made the negroes citizens. Frank Parrish, the well-known barber, is spoken of as the man to beat Brownlow. He is the superior of Brownlow in almost every respect. He is inte ligent, moral, industrious, has a fair education, has been a great traveler in foreign parts, is renowned for his affability and kindness of heart, is nearly as white as Brownlow, and is more of a gentleman. If heshould take the stump he would carry the whole negro vote and beat the cursing Parson badly. In a fight between Brownlow and big Frank, we go for Frank all the time—Louisville Journal.

TAX ON COTTON.—This iniquitous imposition on the South has been continued, but slightly reduced under the tax bill as passed at the late session of Congress. The Senate cut it down to two cents, but to this the House would not agree, and as a compromise two and a half cents was adopted as the rate. This reduction will make a difference of about $2,25 on each bale of cotton, which at this time is a matter of considerable moment to the impoverished and oppressed people of the South.

In Brief.

——Forney's paper, and one nearer home, are violently abusive of the President, for his late noble veto message,—a document that will live in history, and be read with admiration by the friends of liberty, and of constitutional freedom, when the mad schemes of the revolutionary anarchists of the present day will be remembered only with amazement and horror. No nobler purpose ever actuated an American President than that which has influenced Andrew Johnson. If, as the Washington Republican truly remarks, he is to be deposed from power, for his inflexible adherence to the sacred principles of the Constitution, it will be the highest honor that ever befel an "American Statesman." His action, in vetoing a bill which confers upon him powers as unlimited, so long as he remains in office, as those of the Emperor of Russia, will rank forever as the sublimest instance of patriotic self-abnegation on record.

——The opinion, somewhat current, that the Sherman act becomes immediately operative and invests the military officials, now stationed in the South, with greater powers than they at present possess, is entirely erroneous. As soon as it suits the President to do so, he will comply with its provisions by proceeding to put it in execution. He will appoint the officers, who are to be clothed with the supreme authority, and assign them to duty in their respective "Districts." He will also, probably, make the act a text of an elaborate General Order, which will contain explicit rules for its enforcement; and the manner in which it will be enforced will depend very much upon the character of these regulations.

—— The Richmond Times remarks—and we heartily re-echo the sentiment:

"It is to us a source of melancholy satisfaction that in one respect we have been mercifully dealt with by Congress. The "Constitutional amendment" required us to become parties to the destruction of our civil rights and to the disfranchisement of our ablest and most honoured citizens. We were treated as possessing just enough of the semblance of State sovereignty to ratify and sanction what we esteemed dishonoring measures. Now, however, we are treated as a conquered people, overwhelmed by a powerful enemy after years of desperate valor, and held by the strong hand of the military."

——Large numbers of negroes at Yorktown, Virginia, and its vicinity, being without employment and in a state of destitution, the Freedmen's Bureau at Washington has directed that the surplus population be removed as far as possible, to more distant points where the negroes may be able to obtain employment. The order has created considerable excitement among the negroes, and there were rumors that they intended to combine to resist the measure. To prevent any disturbance, the military authorities at Fortress Monroe have dispatched patrols of soldiers to be on hand to meet any such contingency, but no serious outbreak is said to be apprehended.

——The Washington correspondent of the New York Times states that Mrs. Frances Lord Bond has filed an application in the State Department at Washington for a Consular appointment; that her application has been considered in Cabinet meeting, and that the Administration has finally concluded to nominate her to the Consulate of some British port, as soon as she has prepared herself in accordance with the regulations of the State Department.

—— The news by the Cable announces the arrest of Colonel O'Connor, the Fenian leader in the revolutionary movements in Ireland. He was arrested at Athlone, nearly two hundred miles from the scene of the late outbreak at Killarney.

—— The correspondent of the Baltimore Gazette gives the following interesting account of the last hours of the "old," and the opening scenes of the "new" Congress:

"In the House the expiring hours of the session were marked by great uproar. The galleries were crammed. The floor was packed with a dense mass of human beings, male and female. About a quarter to twelve some one on the Republican side introduced a bill reducing the salary of the members, and the yeas and nays were ordered, with, however, no possibility of passing the bill. Here was presented an opportunity of humbugging the people, and as the call of the roll progressed nearly every Radical answered in the affirmative. Before the completion of the call the hammer of the Speaker fell, and he announced the expiration of the session. The Thirty-ninth Congress, therefore, expired in the midst of this appropriate piece of knavery, and may be said to have literally died with a lie in its mouth.

It is the province of others to speak of the doings of this defunct body. It may here be said, briefly, however, that for combined audacity, malignity, fanaticism, and a total want of every essential of statesmanship, it stands unrivalled in all historic time.

No sooner had the Thirty-ninth Congress breathed its last than the Clerk announced the advent of the Fortieth, and commenced the call of the names of the new members, and upon its completion Mr. Brooks rose and entered a solemn protest, signed by all the Democratic members, against the legality of the body about to be organized as the House of Representatives. He pronounced this a fragment of the old rump Congress. In the defunct body ten of the States of the Union were unrepresented; in this seventeen, including Nebraska—only twenty States being represented on the floor. His remarks were dignified and eminently befitting the occasion.

During the speech of Mr. Brooks he adverted to the probability of an impeachment of the President, and urged that as an argument against the legality of the present House, intimating that the attempt to oust him from his office under the proposed organization might lead to serious consequences.

When the Clerk, in calling the roll, reached the name of Butler, of Massachusetts, quite a sensation was produced. He answered "here" in a weak and tremulous tone, in striking contrast with the manly and distinct voice of Morrissey—the calling of whose name also gave interest to the otherwise wearisome proceedings. By the way, it is very current that Butler will seek immediately to take the ribbons from the hands of Stevens, and also run an opposition line against Sumner and Wilson for the management of Massachusetts affairs.—It is also thought that if Congress shall determine to adjourn shortly, the management of the Impeachment will be left in the hands of a committee, with power to call Congress together as soon as they shall have completed the investigation. In respect to this matter the Chronicle of this morning speaks officially as follows:

"The subject necessarily goes over to the Fortieth Congress and the new Committee on the Judiciary of the House, which will probably be composed of most of the members of the present committee, all of whom have been re-elected with the exception of Hon. D. Morris, Republican, of New York, and Hon. A. J. Rogers, Democrat, of New Jersey. The people of the United States, after long and patient forbearance, have indubitably come to the conclusion that Andrew Johnson should be impeached and removed from the Presidential office.—This judgment, sincerely and very generally entertained up to within a few days, has been made almost universal by the atrocious doctrines and still more atrocious threats contained in his veto of the Reconstruction bill."

IS THE AMENDMENT ABOLISHING SLAVERY RATIFIED?—A most momentous question is raised in the message as to the legality of the Constitutional amendment abolishing human slavery in the United States. Because of the action of the Legislatures of, the lately rebellious States, among others official promulgation has been made of the extinction of slavery, by the adoption of the Constitutional amendment. By this bill Congress declares the acts of these States invalid; therefore it must follow that the amendment has not been legally ratified.—Have the Radicals revived the hateful system of human bondage in their mad crusade against the sovereignty of the States?—Washington Republican of yesterday.

SOUTHERN RAILROADS.—The report made by Representative Maynard, from the special committee on Southern railroads, is to the effect that they have examined a number of witnesses, but the committee are not progressed far enough to enable them to make a full report. They therefore propose that the evidence already taken be placed in the hands of their clerk for the disposition of the Fortieth Congress.—Chronicle of yesterday.

The Fall Session of this Institution closed 23rd. day of December. The Spring Session opened the 1st. Wednesday in January, and will continue 20 weeks.

The success of this school has been without a parallel. A new building has just been completed, by which a large additional number can be accommodated. We are determined to make our pupils as comfortable as they can be made anywhere, and to afford them all the advantage for a thorough and extensive education, that can be found at any First class Female College, North or South.

The location is a most delightful one. The Mineral Water is too well known to the whole country to need a remark. Even invalid young ladies may secure a thorough education, and at the same time the restoration of their health. Reference is made to every intelligent Physician in the State, as well as to the hundreds who have found relief here.

The young ladies all worship in the College Chapel, and hence no extra clothing is required.—In the single item of dress parents can save 25 per cent. of the entire expense incurred by sending to Boarding Schools located in cities or villages.—This Institution is certainly one of the cheapest and most easy of access in the Southern States.—Besides, it offers the most superior advantages in every respect.
